CFAR Is Good, In Fact.

Which is what I've literally been saying this whole time, really.

But apparently this has become a Sequence.

Something a few moments ago triggered me to check out of curiosity if my blog had ever been web-archived before. Apparently it had, right around the time the previous post was on the top, because it was the latest post at the time (February 28th-ish). And I guess someone else decided to have it archived, I don't know who(m). But not relevant right now anyway... But It'll probably become relevant later, as things things tend to go.

What is relevant to me right now, is simply that I at that moment silently berated myself for posting the previous post without at least checking web.archive.org for the San Francisco Chronicle article which served as the whole centerpiece.

But I'm going to keep this post short like the last one.

Ergo, I've left that as an exercise for the reader. (Hint: I'm confident I don't have to do it myself immediately).
